

The Internet is an enormous system of international communication. It is made up of a series of computer networks, which are connected by telephone and cable lines that communicate in a common computer language. Developed in 1991 in the United States, the World Wide Web (WWW) has allowed millions of computers and computer users around the world to link up, making communication and the exchange of information easier.

URL (uniform resource locator)

world wide web

Post Office

